

Moving From Training to Transformative Leadership:

Building a Woman-Centered AIDS Response in Africa, Asia and the Americas

Kaythi Win,
Population Services
International-Myanmar

Jemimah Atieno,
Kenya Teachers Service
Commission

Shannon Behning,
Women's Lighthouse
Project-USA

Breakfast and Discussion

When: Thursday, July 22
07:00h - 08:30h

Where: Mini Room 9

Though the "feminization of AIDS" is part of most government and donor lexicons, this awareness has yet to be translated into significant numbers of women in decisionmaking roles related to AIDS policy, funding and programs. The session presents lessons learned from a cutting edge leadership program that has empowered women globally to advocate for a women-centered approach to HIV and AIDS. Attendees will learn about the methodology and content of the Ford Foundation-funded training program, led by CEDPA and its partners: the International Center for Research on Women (ICRW), International Community of Women Living with HIV/AIDS (ICW) and the National Minority AIDS Council (NMAC).